Greenville County Schools Adult Education programs include Lifelong Learning and the Satellite Diploma Program. All the students are 17 years of age or older and are no longer enrolled in a high school. Tonight, we honor students who have earned their diploma at Lifelong Learning.

Lifelong Learning serves over 1,400 adult students. Many students come to improve their reading, writing, and math skills needed to attain a regular South Carolina High School Diploma or to pass the national GED Exam to earn a High School Equivalent Diploma. Many students from other countries attend English Literacy classes, and other adult students attend classes to prepare for the WIN WorkReady Certificate or WorkKeys Certificate.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF ACADEMIC DRESS AND GRADUATION

As you watch the candidate for graduation march in today you may have some questions about the robes, caps, and procedures. You might ask such questions as why do they wear these robes? Who gets to wear what kind of robes? Why are the stage officials robes different from the graduate? What do the colors mean?

You will be watching a parade of the Middle Ages. The caps and gowns are actually an inheritance from the university scholar of four to six hundred years ago. In those days, the robe served to keep the wearer warm in rooms with little heat in the winters.

In the United States, the academic graduation costume consists of a long black gown, and stiff square-topped cap, called a mortarboard, with a tassel. The tassel is worn on the right side of the mortarboard when the students come into the ceremony. At the end of the ceremony, the students are pronounced "graduates," they move the tassel to the left side of the mortarboard. This symbolizes the significant academic achievement in their lives and a change from student to alumnus.

Many officials participating in the graduation ceremony also wear a hood, in addition to the black robe. The hood, worn only by college graduates, is the most distinctive feature of the American graduation costume. The hood, which slides over the head and hangs down the back, indicates the college degree. It is lined with the colors of the college or university granting the degree. Some colors are standard, for example: green (medical), purple (law), and light blue (education).

If you will notice the velvet facing down the front of the gown and three bands of the same material on each sleeve that a stage guest is wearing this signifies the wearer has earned a doctor's degree.
